Year 3's learning this week

This week, Year 3 have been learning how to calculate fractions in Maths and the children have written an alternative ending to the book, 'Wolves'. The children have also been outside for our Science lesson and dissected some flowers. The children were able to identify and draw the different parts of a plant and make observations about the similarities and differences between different plants. Year 3 were grateful for the change of weather to enable them to carry out their activity surrounded by different types of plants. Next week, the children will begin to plant their own seeds.
